 - o To protect the security or integrity of our business operations. For example, if someone tried to hack our systems, we might need to share information about you with third parties to help us respond to this.
 - o To comply with law

Retention of your information

We will hold your information for 10 years from the date at which the customer's agreement is closed, or as long as necessary thereafter to deal with any queries you may have.

We may hold your information for a longer or shorter period from that described above where:

- the law requires us to hold your personal information for a longer period, or delete it sooner;
- you exercise your right to have the information erased (where it applies) and we do not need to hold it in connection with any of the reasons permitted or required under the law; and
- in limited cases, the law permits us to keep your personal information indefinitely provided we put certain protections in place.

Transfers to third countries/where we store your information

We store your information on servers located within the United Kingdom (UK) and European Economic Area (EEA).

What is the EEA?

It contains all the countries of the European Union plus Iceland, Norway and Liechtenstein.

The third parties listed under 'Disclosure to and use by third parties' may be located outside of the UK or the EEA, or they may transfer your information outside of the UK and the EEA. The UK and countries within the EEA apply similar standards to protect your data, but other countries may not.

If we transfer your data to someone outside of the UK or EEA, we'll take extra steps to protect it.

What extra steps will we take?

We'll check if the country has an adequate level of protection for your data. If it doesn't, we'll make sure the person we transfer your data to has agreed to protect your data in a similar way. They may do this either as part of a scheme approved by the Government or we may ask them to sign a contract with us.

Any third parties transferring your information outside of the UK or EEA must also have in place appropriate safeguards as required under data protection law.

Your rights

You have various rights under the law over the personal data we hold about you (which may not always apply or be subject to certain circumstances). Here's a summary in the table below:

You have the right to:	What you should know
Be informed about how we use your data	That's why we explain how we use your data in this statement.
Have access to your data	You can ask us for a free copy of the personal data we hold about you and information about how we process it.
Have your data changed	If the data we hold about you isn't correct or complete, you can ask us to correct it or add information so that it's complete. We'll let you know when we've done this. We may refuse your request in some situations -we will let you know, and why, if that happens.
Have your data deleted (some people call this the right to be forgotten)	You can ask us to delete your data, but we won't always do so, for example, we might need to keep it for legal reasons. If we aren't going to delete your data, we will let you know why.
Object to how we use your data	You can ask us to stop using your data for certain purposes. If we use your data for some things, like direct marketing, we'll always stop. But, in other situations, we don't always need to or we may refuse. If that's the case, we'll let you know.
Restrict how we process your data	You can ask us to limit how we use your data. You may, for example, want us to do this if the data we hold about you is not correct or complete. We won't always be able to limit how we use your data. For example, if we need to use it for legal reasons. If we refuse to limit how we use your data, we'll let you know why.
Move, copy or transfer your data (“data portability”)	You can ask us for a copy of your personal data in a format that allows you to move it somewhere else. You can also ask us to send it to someone else.
Challenge an automated decision	If we make an automated decision, you can ask for information about how we make the decision and ask for an individual to make it instead.

We may update the data protection statement from time to time. When we change the data protection statement in a material way, a notice will be displayed on our website along with the updated data protection statement.

More information on your data subject rights, how to exercise these rights and all other information contained within this data protection statement, can be found in the 'Using my information' booklet available at <https://www.hyundaifinance.co.uk/your-data/>. Alternatively, you can request a copy via email from customerservices@hyundaifinanceuk.co.uk or call our customer services team on 0800 085 1954.

If you're not happy with how we use your data

We encourage you to contact us before making any complaint and we will seek to resolve any issues or concerns you may have. You can also contact our DPO with any data protection concerns. You have the right to complain to the Information Commissioner's Office where your data has or is being used in a way that you believe does not comply with data protection laws.
